MESSAGE

from the Director

As we enter the first quarter of 2015, we find exciting initiatives going on in our city, and some directly relate to parks and recreation and Greenville's quality of life, while having the potential for a long term positive impact on our community's economy.

By summer we'll see some improvements to Town Common, in an effort to make it more enjoyable for our residents. Some new benches, picnic tables, water fountains, and trash and recycling receptacles will be evident, along with a floating pier. We hope these will be but a few of the enhancements that will come to "Greenville's Central Park" in the next few years.

We also hope for upcoming improvements along the Tar River, with a goal of making the river's benefits more visible and accessible to our residents and visitors. This natural asset already serves our citizens by being their main source of water, but there are other ways it and its surroundings can benefit our community. The Tar River Legacy Plan was completed late last year, and we will continue to post plan updates at www.tarriverlegacyplan.com.

We are pleased to learn there are plans to fund the massive renovations needed at the South Greenville Recreation Center, a 60+ year old facility that staff has been trying to "duct tape together" for many years! While the facility has remained popular among many Greenville youth and area families, we've generally only been able to provide cosmetic improvements. However, we'll soon be able to make an investment in this aging facility that will make it a much more viable, impactful component of our parks system.

For many years, South Greenville Elementary School Students have utilized the center's gym for their physical education classes. It only makes sense that this publicly-supported facility would be shared with its publicly-supported neighbor, since recreational weekday use of the gym during the school year is limited. For all these decades, however, that gym has been without air conditioning. That's just one of many deficiencies that will be a "thing of the past" once this project is completed.

That will take a while, but we're beginning the development of construction documents shortly, with actual renovations projected to begin in the late Fall of 2015. Watch for them!

And in the meantime, please review this brochure and its "menu of possibilities," regarding the spring and summer recreational opportunities being brought to you by your Greenville Recreation and Parks Department.

Sincerely,

Gary Fenton, Director of Recreation & Parks
